

ACSA Webinar presenter Marco Cimino

BIOGRAPHY

Marco Cimino is a 7-12 HSIE, VET, and Religious Education teacher who actively uses Twitter (@MrMCimino) for professional growth and networking. In 2018, Cimino turned his #HASSchat Twitter chat into the 'Oh, the Humanities! (and Social Sciences)' podcast, which is dedicated to the teaching and learning of HASS (Humanities and Social Sciences). This provides educators with a new and innovative way of accessing professional development on their terms.

Additionally, Cimino continues to assist with the professional growth of other educators through having had articles published across a range of professional teaching association journals such as the Geography Teachers' Association of New South Wales, and the History Teachers' Association of New South Wales, as well as the Australian Educational Leader journal.

Cimino has also presented at conferences for the Geography Teachers' Association of New South Wales, the Australian Geography Teachers' Association, and the Business Educators Australasia Conference, along with presenting at the RESCON Australia conference. In 2019, Cimino was awarded an Honorary Fellowship of the Teachers' Guild of New South Wales for his services to education.
