BIOGRAPHY

Peter Ellerton is a lecturer in critical thinking pedagogies at the University of Queensland and has been a teacher of Physics and Philosophy. His research and practice concerns the development of pedagogical expertise in teaching for thinking.

Peter works with institutions and educators across all year levels and discipline areas to develop capabilities in curriculum and assessment design and to create networks of teachers that seed and encourage the development of critical thinking pedagogies. Peter is also a syllabus writer in philosophy and science for state and international organisations. His work also involves developing pedagogical approaches for teachers working with high performing indigenous students.
